

The figure consists of two heatmaps, one for RNA and one for Protein, each with 100 columns representing samples. The RNA heatmap shows a high concentration of red in the first 25 samples, while the Protein heatmap shows a high concentration of red in the last 25 samples. The color scale ranges from light blue (low) to dark red (high).

